

MS SUFFERERS BILL OF RIGHTS

- Your voice has the Right to be heard. No matter how small or faint, your voice is a reflection of your spirit and merits recognition by the world around it.
- You have the Right to the freedom of expression. The needs of your heart must be communicated to others in order to grow; but nurtured through kindness, love and understanding
- You have the Right to live a normal, healthy life.
- You have the Right to take your life back, and be in control of your own true destiny.
- You have the Right to question authority.
- You have the Right to seek knowledge and information from other areas of expertise if you so desire.
- You have the Right to a qualified second or even a third professional opinion regarding your status and wellbeing.
- You have the Right to be treated fairly in all ways.
- You have the Right to question why you've been given the avenues of healing and remedies you've been given, and understand why they should work for you.
- You have the Right to know what the future may hold for you and what you might expect to happen.
- You have the Right to discover, learn from and apply different principles other than what you've been told to accept on face value.
- You have the Right to God-given, fundamental freedom and good health, and to be a vibrant energetic human being.
- You have the Right to know and understand that your life has meaning and purpose.
- You have the Right to be counted as equal among all others and in quiet repose, command respect.
- You have the Right to know that you are here for a reason and that your life has a deeper meaning and greater purpose.
- You have the Right to have faith in yourself, no matter what your circumstances, and to believe in your dreams and allow them the freedom to grow and develop.
- You have the Right to know and understand that God has brought you into this world for a reason, and no matter what your circumstance, you have the ultimate responsibility to come to peace in your realization of that truth and to believe in it.